

AHNS VIRTUAL EDUCATION SERIES

New Concepts for Management of Regionally Advanced Merkel Cell Carcinoma of the Head and Neck

The AHNS Cutaneous Cancer Section cordially welcomes you to join us for an up-to-date, evidence-based management of locally advanced Merkel cell carcinoma of the head and neck.

Moderator:

Brittney Tillman, MD – Head & Neck Surgeon, UT Southwestern Medical Center

Panelists:

Sydney Ch'ng, MBBS, PhD – Head & Neck Surgeon, Melanoma Institute Australia & Chris O'Brien Lifehouse Cancer Ctr., University of Sydney
Michael Wong, MD PhD – Medical Oncologist, MD Anderson Cancer Center
Evan Wuthrick, MD – Radiation Oncologist, Moffitt Cancer Center

Objectives:

We aim to enhance our attendees' knowledge base regarding evidence-based management of MCC in the adjuvant setting through the following objectives.

- Objective 1: Appraise the approach and current evidence for the application of SLNBx and management of regional nodal basins following a positive SLNB.
- Objective 2: Articulate the role of radiation to the cervical nodal basins for regionally metastatic or positive SLNB
- Objective 3: Review clinical trials evaluating adjuvant post-operative immunotherapy for regionally metastatic MCC.
